OCCUPATION

As a parent of three young children, I care deeply about the strength of our public schools and the people who make them work. I've spent years volunteering in our schools, collaborating with educators and administrators, and working hands-on through our PTA to support students, solve problems, and strengthen the connection between families and classrooms.

I believe every student deserves the chance to succeed in a safe, well-supported classroom. As a parent with children who will be in this district for years to come, I'm deeply invested in getting this right. That means planning ahead: building more schools now, when we need them, and making sure every tax dollar works to support all students, current and future. Then I believe we should expand learning opportunities by investing in STEM, art, music, and programs that help students discover their strengths, explore future paths, and prepare for a changing world.

My approach is grounded based on my experience in classrooms right now, in board meetings, and in everyday conversations with parents and teachers. I lead by listening, engaging, and getting things done. I'm running to represent our community with integrity, action, and to shape a district that puts students and teachers first.
