OCCUPATION Business Owner

Katrina Gibson is a business owner and community member based in Weber County, Utah. Raised in the upper Ogden Valley, she developed a strong work ethic early in life through hands-on experience in agriculture and family-run operations. Those early experiences helped shape her understanding of responsibility, budgeting, and the value of hard work.

Katrina has built and managed multiple small businesses, gaining practical experience in overseeing employees, managing budgets, and maintaining daily operations. Through her work, she has focused on supporting local economies, creating job opportunities, and providing reliable services within her community. Her background has given her insight into the challenges and opportunities faced by small business owners and working families.

She is actively involved in her community and values strong families, local businesses, and responsible stewardship of resources. Katrina is known for her practical, solutions-oriented approach and her emphasis on accountability and follow-through.

Katrina lives in West Weber with her family, where they remain engaged in local activities and community life. Her experiences in business and community involvement continue to shape her perspective and commitment to serving others.
